

BIOGRAPHY

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

MASTER SERGEANT DANIEL A. WERNER

MSgt Daniel Adam Werner is the First Sergeant at the 55th Force Support Squadron, Offutt Air Force Base (AFB), Nebraska. As First Sergeant, he is the principle advisor to the squadron commander on health, mentoring, esprit de corps, and welfare for the 187 military personnel. He serves as the squadron liaison for on and off-base agencies supporting quality of life, safety, health, and professional development. Additionally, he advises the Commander concerning training and deployment readiness status. Furthermore, he oversees administrative actions, manages awards and promotion boards programs, and assesses quality of force indicators. Finally, he provides guidance to all enlisted personnel on leadership, professional military education, military courtesies, discipline, and career counseling

Master Sergeant Werner entered the Air Force in July 2002. He graduated from the bomber avionics apprentice course at Sheppard AFB, Texas in May 2003. His background includes various duties in aircraft maintenance including avionics technician, section chief, and production superintendent. He has also filled the role of Airman Dorm Leader at Kunsan Air Base (AB), South Korea. Prior to his current position, MSgt Werner was a First Sergeant at the 55th Communications Squadron, Offutt AFB, Neb.
